
Model: common productivity across countries. Capital and output per person are normalized relative to the US.